College Day

BUILDING FUTURES AND INSPIRING YOUNG MINDS

What Is It?

College Day is a pre-college summer program that focuses on serving rising ninth-graders. This program centers around successfully supporting the transition of middle school youth through a holistic development and hands-on approach. The program is housed at the Center for Educational Outreach (CEO) at the University of Michigan (U-M Ann Arbor).

Program Goals

- To provide in-state rising ninth-graders with the opportunity to experience a college learning environment
- To support students in the development of academic and life skills for a strong transition to high school by preparing for more challenging courses and increased workload
- To encourage students to cultivate positive and professional relationships with U-M faculty, staff, and students
- To develop and inspire future socially responsible leaders
- To give students an authentic experience as a college student including exposure to a
